Bio / Artist Statement:

Clare Murray Adams is former Professor of Art and Chair of the Visual Art Department at Malone University. She earned a BFA from Kent State University and an MFA from Vermont College. Over the past 35 years her artwork has been exhibited regionally and nationally in fiber and mixed media exhibits often taking home honors or awards. During the past four years she has had 7 One-Person exhibits in Ohio, Indiana, New York, South Carolina, and California.

Earlier work was strongly rooted in quiltmaking and surface design. More recent work relies on the processes involved in making 3D constructions, in collage, the book arts, and in encaustic painting or working with wax. Clare's long interest and attraction to fibers is still evident in her work, if not in process, then certainly in concept.
